

From Cape Town to Rocklands

Rock Climbing in South Africa's Western Cape

The Western Cape of South Africa is a rock climber's paradise. From trad climbing on Table Mountain to bouldering in Rocklands, the Western Cape has something for everyone. Cape Town alone is home to thousands of routes and boulder problems, not to mention the hiking and surfing!

With moderate weather, breathtaking mountains, and a unique grading system, traveling to South Africa should be on any climber's bucket list.

- Bouldering: crash pad required   Sport and traditional
- Sport: fixed bolted protection   Sport and bouldering
- Traditional: hand-placed protection   Sport, traditional, and bouldering
- Climbing gym: indoors   Sport, traditional, and bouldering

Cartography: Liam Smith with guidance from Jeff Howarth and Derrick Burt

Projection: Hartebeesthoek94/ZAF BSU Albers 25E EPSG:9221

Sources: Rock climbing locations from Mountain Project and theCrag. Terrain data from Multi-Error-Removed Improved-Terrain DEM and Shuttle Radar Topography Mission, acquired via Google Earth Engine's Data Catalog. Rivers from South Africa National Geo-Spatial Information, the International Steering Committee for Global Mapping, and City of Cape Town Open Data Portal. Roads from OpenStreetMap, acquired through The Humanitarian Data Exchange. Landform features and names from the National Geospatial-Intelligence Agency, AllTrails, and Google Maps. Protected areas from South Africa's Department of Forestry, Fisheries, and the Environment. Countries and graticule from Natural Earth. Province and municipal boundaries from the Humanitarian Data Exchange.